

Ancrum V Selkirk

Saturday 18th Nov

It was a cold morning when Ancrum rolled out the pavilion to what would be their last game of the season. Starting in goals was superman (other wise known as Clark Skeldon), who made some fine saves during the match.

At the back were the new kids on the block, Duncan McNeil and Zach Rowlands who supported the goalie superbly. In midfield were the “Bongate boys “Scott Richardson and Cammy Redpath” who along with Daniel Chapman sent some excellent balls through to the strikers Finlay Duff, Rory Latta and Gregor Law. Late on in the game Duncan McNeil pulled on the goalie jumper and kept the Selkirk shots on goal at bay.

Watched by a capacity crowd in the stand a fine game of football was seen by all.

The team now takes a break for the winter but will be back on the park in early March 2007
